(57) Abstract :

Distance is important factor that effects communication of virus like COVID-19. Rate of spread of this virus is directly proportional to the distance of anybody whether its human or any material object. If mass of Covid -19 virus be taken as m_1 and mass of another body as the human or a thing as m_2 , then the spread of the Covid Virus is the product of these two masses and is directly proportional to the distance between them and inversely as the radical power of the distances between them. There is a possibility of connivance of waves radiated as gravitational natural waves who affects the living bodies at large. Covid-19 virus may have a material nature;
