7.1.4 – Water conservation facilities available in the Institution:

1. Rainwater harvesting
2. Bore well/Open well recharge.
3. Construction of tanks and bunds
4. Wastewater recycling
5. Maintenance of water bodies and distribution system in the campus

Rainwater harvesting: All open grounds have Rainwater Harvesting Systems which provide the proper solution, from collection of water in tanks.

Rainwater from the roof top is connected through pipes. From open areas water it is moved by constructing slope structures towards tanks. In the tanks, the rainwater is purified with the help of sand, and it is directed towards the open well through Rainwater Harvesting structures. After filtration the water pours in the ground to recharge the earth.

Due to these efforts, it has been observed that the water level in open wells has increased significantly.

"JV Earth Recharge Pipes" are useful for pouring rainwater and earth water directly into the soil of those areas earth where water is not diverted through constructed structure of rainwater harvesting or the University does not have sufficient budget for that purpose.

These Small pipes prepared from waste pipes from different works by the University night staff that prevent them from sleep during their duty hours and these prepared pipes are placed at various point of university campus and distributed in nearby villages and buried in the ground by the farmers of nearby villages for water recharging purpose.

"JV Earth Recharge Pipe" also has a filter mechanism so that filtered clean water can pour into the earth.

Maintenance of water bodies and distribution system in the campus

Sewage Waste: University has Sewage Treatment Plant (STP) for the treatment of solid and liquid sewage waste. The resultant treated water is used for irrigation & landscaping of the campus. The rest of the waste is used in manure bank. Treated water is currently used for irrigating campus lawns and gardens and flushing the toilets.
